

GARDENS OF MACARON

Delicious macarons in rainbow colours are now selling in PIERRE HERMÉ PARIS boutiques in Hong Kong. A new limited edition flavour is being introduced every month from March as part of the brand's Les Jardins collection 2014, each flavour representing the fluctuations of nature and seasons around the world. The name of April's macaron flavor is the 8 Treasure Jardin macaron, and this delicate gem showcases the mysterious flavours of the traditional Chinese Eight Treasure Tea. For the month of May, customers will delight in the discovery of Jardin Mystérieux. Only Pierre Hermé himself knows the secret ingredient buried in this macaron.

LE PASSAGE MOHKAN SHAN

Once the getaway and playground of Shanghai's high society, Mount Mogan (or Moganshan) in China's Zhejiang province is reliving some of the glamour of the 1930s thanks to LE PASSAGE MOHKAN SHAN – China's first French luxury country house hotel. Located two-and-a-half hours from Shanghai, the hotel boasts beautifully appointed suites, exquisite French and Chinese cuisine and personalised service for high-end travelers. Le Passage Mohkan Shan's 29 spacious rooms ooze comfort and character, each room resplendent with French heritage features such as high ceilings, antique wooden floors, tall windows and oversized bathrooms. Meals are at the heart of a visit to this chic-yet-relaxed retreat, with the choice of fine dining and rustic country cuisine. All seafood is imported from France and fresh produce is obtained from a local organic farm. Nestled in the lush hills of a tea plantation, this calming retreat offers fresh-air activities like bike rides, walks and guided tea-picking – wonderful, lung-cleansing pastimes after the heat and pollution of the big city.
